WILLIAM & MARY LAW SCHOOL

THE BRIGHAM-KANNER PROPERTY RIGHTS CONFERENCE

The Brigham-Kanner Property Rights Conference, Prize, and Journal are named in recognition of Toby Prince Brigham and Gideon Kanner for their lifetime contributions to private property rights and their efforts to advance constitutional protection of property. The Brigham-Kanner Property Rights Conference began in 2004 at William & Mary Law School. The Conference is designed to bring together members of the bench, bar, and academia to explore recent developments in the law that affect property rights. The Prize is awarded each year to an individual whose work affirms that property rights are fundamental to protecting individual liberty.

The Brigham-Kanner Property Rights Journal was established in 2012 to provide a forum for scholarly debate on property rights issues. The Journal publishes papers presented at the annual conference with the goal of extending the debate to a wider audience. Through the Journal, the Property Rights Project ensures that the proceedings of the Conference and any accompanying nonconference articles selected for publication are preserved and made available on its website for all interested parties. The Journal is available in print and electronic form through the Project's website:

Property and Propriety (or a Well-Ordered Society): A Tribute to Gregory S. Alexander

Professor Gregory S. Alexander has focused much of his scholarship on how property can best serve multiple values that are important to a well-ordered society. Using Alexander's work as a springboard, this panel will discuss the value structure underlying various theories of property and whether those theories would promote a well-ordered society.

Opening Remarks: Gregory S. Alexander, A. Robert Noll Professor of Law, Emeritus, Cornell Law School, "Propriety Redux"

Panelists

James E. Krier, Earl Warren DeLano Professor of Law, Emeritus, University of Michigan Law School

Equity's Role in Defining Property Rights

Equity has long had an influence on the delineation and development of property rights. In addition to defining the extent of property rights and influencing a court's choice of remedies, equity has played a role in governing or managing the impact of property rights on other interests. This panel will discuss these and other topics related to the role of equity in property law, including the relationship of that role with constitutional protection of property rights.

Panelists

Henry E. Smith, Fessenden Professor of Law and Director for the Project on the Foundations of Private Law, Harvard Law School

Samuel L. Bray, John N. Matthews Professor of Law, Notre Dame Law School

The Scalability of Property Rights (or the extent to which interests in property are or should be constitutionally protected)

How property rights are defined and scaled over various dimensions like time, space, place, and socioecological systems affects whether the rights are divisible, can be aggregated, concentrated, or merged, are vulnerable to or tools of exploitation, and can be reasonably regulated without any takings liability. Legally recognized interests in real and tangible property traditionally were the prime focus of the Takings Clause, while interests in intangible property, intellectual property, and contract-based interests in property (e.g., licenses and servitudes) were not usually protected under the Takings Clause. To what extent can or should interests in property be scaled (either up or down) without takings liability to avoid disconnects with natural resources and physical realities (e.g., water shortages), mismatches between owners and users (e.g., landlord/tenant or housing shortages), and transformative effects on socioecological systems (e.g., environmental disasters)?

THE BRIGHAM-KANNER

PROPERTY RIGHTS PRIZE

Every year during the Brigham-Kanner Property Rights Conference, the Property Rights Project presents the Brigham-Kanner Prize to an outstanding figure in the field. The Prize is named in recognition of Toby Prince Brigham and Gideon Kanner for their lifetime contributions to private property rights, their efforts to advance constitutional protections of property, and their accomplishments in preserving the important role that private property plays in protecting individual and civil rights. Toby Prince Brigham was a founding partner of Brigham Moore, LLP, in Florida and, prior to his retirement, practiced eminent domain and property rights law for more than fifty years. Gideon Kanner is Professor of Law, Emeritus, at Loyola Law School in Los Angeles, California.

This year, the Brigham-Kanner Prize will be awarded to Gregory S. Alexander for his outstanding contributions as a property rights scholar.

Gregory S. Alexander

Gregory S. Alexander taught at Cornell Law School from 1984 until his retirement from full-time teaching in 2018 as the A. Robert Noll Professor of Law. Since then, he has been a regular visiting professor at the University of California, Berkeley, Law School. A graduate of Northwestern University School of Law, he clerked on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. He also received a B.A. from the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign and a Ph.D. in Philosophy from the University of Chicago. He was a Bigelow Fellow at the University of Chicago Law School. Professor Alexander has been a fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences in Palo Alto, California and at the Max Planck Institutes for Comparative Law in Hamburg and Heidelberg, Germany. He has taught at UCLA, Virginia, and Harvard Law Schools and was the Herbert Smith Distinguished Visiting Fellow at Cambridge University. Alexander is a prolific writer and the winner of the American Publishers Association's 1997 Best Book of the Year in Law award for his work, Commodity and Propriety:

Competing Visions of Property in American Legal Thought (Chicago). His other books include The Global Debate Over Constitutional Property: Lessons for American Takings Jurisprudence (Chicago), Community & Property (with Eduardo Peñalver) (Oxford), and Properties of Property (with Hanoch Dagan) (Aspen). His most recent books are An Introduction to Property Theory (with Eduardo Peñalver) (Cambridge) and Property and Human Flourishing (Oxford). In addition to all of these books, he is a co-author on the leading Property casebook with James Krier, Michael Schill, and Lior Strahilevitz. Alexander has delivered named lectures at many law schools, both in the United States and around the world.

PAST RECIPIENTS

OF THE BRIGHAM-KANNER PRIZE

2004

Frank I. Michelman

Frank I. Michelman is the Robert Walmsley University Professor, Emeritus, at Harvard University, where he taught from 1963 to 2012. She has degrees from Antioch College (B.A. Philosophy), the University of Chicago (M.A. Political Science, J.D. Law), and Cornell University (Ph.D. History), and an Honorary Degree from the Chicago-Kent College of Law. She is a member of the American Law Institute, as well as a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Justice Sandra Day O'Connor

Justice Sandra Day O'Connor received the 2011 prize at the eighth annual conference, which was held in Beijing. The 2011 conference was co-sponsored by Tsinghua University School of Law and was a featured event during the university's celebration of the hundredth anniversary of its founding. Justice O'Connor served as an associate justice of the Supreme Court from 1981 to 2006 and as Chancellor of the College of William & Mary from 2005 until 2011. In May 2010, the William & Mary Law School faculty awarded her its highest honor, the Marshall-Wythe Medallion, in recognition of her exceptional accomplishments and leadership. Justice O'Connor served as an Arizona assistant attorney general from 1965 to 1969, when she was appointed to a vacancy in the Arizona Senate. In 1974, she ran successfully for trial judge, a position she held until she was appointed to the Arizona Court of Appeals in 1979. Eighteen months later, on July 7, 1981, President Ronald Reagan nominated her to the Supreme Court.

2012

James E. Krier

James E. Krier, Earl Warren DeLano Professor of Law, Emeritus, at University of Michigan Law School, was awarded the 2012 Brigham-Kanner Property Rights Prize at the ninth annual conference. He taught courses on property, trusts and estates, behavioral law and economics, and pollution policy. His research interests are primarily in the fields of property and law and economics, and he is the author or co-author of several books, including Environmental Law and Policy (with R.B. Stewart) (Bobbs-Merrill Co. 1978), Pollution and Policy (with E. Ursin) (University of California Press 1977) and Property (Aspen Publishing 9th ed. 2018). His most recent articles have been published in Harvard Law Review, Supreme Court Economic Review, UCLA Law Review, Cornell Law Review, and William & Mary Law Review. A professor of law at UCLA and Stanford before joining the Michigan Law faculty in 1983, he has been a visiting professor at both Harvard University Law School, Cardozo School of Law, and the University of Alabama School of Law.

Thomas W. Merrill

Thomas W. Merrill is the Charles Evans Hughes Professor of Law at Columbia Law School. He is a preeminent property law scholar. Merrill served as the deputy solicitor general for the Department of Justice in the late 1980s. For several years, he worked for the firm Sidley, Austin, Brown & Wood in Chicago. He has also worked as an investment analyst for the National Bank of Detroit from 1973 to 1974. Merrill has previously taught at Northwestern Law School from 1981 to 2003 and at Yale Law School from 2008 to 2010. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts & Sciences. He clerked for the Honorable David L. Bazelon, U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, and for the Honorable Harry A. Blackmun on the Supreme Court. Merrill writes widely in the fields of property and administrative law. In property, he has authored—with Henry Smith of Harvard University—a series of articles relating to the structure of property rights to information costs in Optimal Standardization in the Law of Property: The Numerus Clausus Principle, Yale Law Journal, 2000. He also wrote a leading casebook, Property: Principles and Policies, 2012, along with a series of studies with Joseph Kearney of Marquette on the role of public property rights in the development of the Chicago lakefront, The Origins of the American Public Trust Doctrine: What Really Happened in Illinois Central, University of Chicago Law Review, 2004. His variety of writings are focused on constitutional property. In administrative law, he has written a number of pieces about the history of administrative law and about judicial review of agency interpretations of law. He graduated from the University of Chicago Law School, where he was articles editor of the Law Review in 1977. In 1973, he graduated from the University of Oxford, where he was a Rhodes Scholar, and Grinnell College in 1971.

Michael M. Berger

Michael M. Berger is one of the top eminent domain and land use lawyers in the United States. His appellate practice at Manatt, Phelps & Phillips has involved condemnation, due process, and equal protection. He is the first practicing lawyer to receive the Brigham-Kanner Property Rights Prize and is considered by his peers to be among the best takings lawyers in the nation. Mr. Berger has argued four cases before the U.S. Supreme Court, as well as cases before appellate courts throughout California, numerous federal courts of appeal, and several state supreme courts. He is also a frequent author of amicus curiae briefs in various appellate courts, particularly the U.S. Supreme Court, pressing client interests in important pending cases. His energetic defense of property owners contributed major decisions to Fifth Amendment jurisprudence in cases such as Tahoe-Sierra (where Mr. Berger's opposing counsel was John Roberts, who is now Chief Justice of the United States), Del Monte Dunes, Preseault, and First English. After attending Brandeis University, Mr. Berger received his J.D. from Washington University School of Law and his LL.M. (in real property) from the University of Southern California.

Joseph William Singer

Joseph William Singer has long been recognized as one of the nation's foremost theorists in property law. In addition to a casebook and treatise on property law, he is the author of Entitlement: The Paradoxes of Property (Yale University Press 2000), The Edges of the Field: Lessons on the Obligations of Ownership (Beacon Press 2000), and No Freedom without Regulation: The Hidden Lesson of the Subprime Crisis (Yale University Press 2015). Singer, who joined the Harvard Law School faculty in 1992, was appointed Harvard's Bussey Professor of Law in 2006. Prior to that, he taught at Boston University School of Law, practiced law in Boston, and served as a law clerk to Justice Morris Pashman of the Supreme Court of New Jersey. In addition to books on property law and federal Indian law, he has published more than seventy law review articles. He received his law degree and master's degree (Political Science) from Harvard and is a graduate of Williams College.

Hernando de Soto

Hernando de Soto is the author of The Mystery of Capital: Why Capitalism Triumphs in the West and Fails Everywhere

Else (Basic Books 2000); The Other Path: The Economic Answer to Terrorism (Basic Books 2002), which includes a new updated preface, "The Other Path after Ten Years"; and Swiss Human Rights Book Volume 1: Realizing Property Rights (2006), co-authored with Francis Cheneval. He has received numerous international recognitions and honors, including, for example, the Adam Smith Award (Association of Private Enterprise Education), BearingPoint, Inc.–Forbes Magazine Compass Award for Strategic Direction, the CARE Canada Award for Outstanding Development Thinking, The Economist magazine's Innovation Award, the Freedom Prize (Max Schmidheiny Foundation), and the Milton Friedman Prize for Advancing Liberty (Cato Institute).

David L. Callies

A prolific scholar whose work explores land use, property, and state and local government law, Professor David L. Callies has lectured around the world, and authored or collaborated on more than ninety articles and twenty books. He is the Benjamin A. Kudo Professor of Law, Emeritus, at the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa. He is an elected member of the College of Fellows, American Institute of Certified planners; a member of the American College of Real Estate Lawyers; and a member of the American Law Institute since 1990. Prior to entering academia, he was an attorney in private practice and an assistant state's attorney. Callies' recognitions include the Owners' Counsel of America's Crystal Eagle Award, the Lambda Alpha International Member of the Year Award, the Jefferson Fordham Lifetime Achievement Award, which is conferred by the ABA's Section of State and Local Government Law, and the Fourteenth Annual Brigham-Kanner Property Rights Prize. He was awarded a University of Hawai'i Regents Medal for Excellence in Teaching in 2009.

Stewart E. Sterk

Professor Stewart E. Sterk is the H. Bert and Ruth Mack Professor of Real Estate Law and Director of the Center for Real Estate Law

& Policy at the Benjamin Cardozo School of Law of Yeshiva University in New York City. His publications include a number of articles on takings law and the law of servitudes, but he has written in a wide variety of areas, ranging from property and land use regulation to trusts and estates, copyright, and conflict of laws. A member of the American Law Institute, Sterk served as an advisor in the preparation of the Restatement (Third) of Property (Servitudes). He has co-authored casebooks on trusts and estates and on land use, and he also edits the New York Real Estate Law Reporter, a monthly newsletter published with the assistance of Cardozo students. The winner of a number of teaching awards at Cardozo, Sterk has taught as a visiting professor at Columbia and at the University of Pennsylvania, and has also taught at N.Y.U.

Steven J. Eagle

Steven J. Eagle is Professor of Law, Emeritus, at the Antonin Scalia Law School, George Mason University. His teaching focuses on property, land use planning, and constitutional law. He is the author of Regulatory Takings, the leading treatise on the subject, and The Four-Factor Penn Central Regulatory Takings Test, which was cited by the Supreme Court of the United States in Murr v. Wisconsin. Professor Eagle also is the author of numerous other scholarly and popular works on the nature of property rights and land use regulation, and lectures extensively on these topics.

Henry E. Smith

Henry E. Smith is the Fessenden Professor of Law at Harvard Law School, where he directs the Project on the Foundations of Private Law. Smith has written and taught primarily in the areas of property, intellectual property, natural resources, remedies, and law and economics. Prior to joining the Harvard faculty in 2008, Smith taught at the Northwestern University School of Law and was the Fred A. Johnston Professor of Property and Environmental Law at Yale Law School. He holds an A.B. from Harvard, a Ph.D. in Linguistics from Stanford, and a J.D. from Yale. After law school he clerked for the Honorable Ralph K. Winter, United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. Smith has written primarily on the law and economics of property and intellectual property, with a focus on how property-related institutions lower information costs and constrain strategic behavior. From 2015 to 2016, Smith served as the President of the Society for Institutional and Organizational Economics, and in 2014, the American Law Institute named him Reporter for a Fourth Restatement of Property.

Vicki Been is the Judge Edward Weinfeld Professor of Law at NYU School of Law, an Affiliated Professor of Public Policy of the NYU Wagner Graduate School of Public Service, and a Faculty Director of NYU's Furman Center for Real Estate and Urban Policy. Her scholarship focuses on the interplay of land use, urban policy and housing. Her work with Bob Ellickson and others on a leading land use casebook, Land Use Controls (5th ed. 2021), has made basic land use concepts accessible to many law students, shaping property law by instructing future practitioners. Her many articles have explored such topics as inclusionary zoning, historic preservation, mortgage foreclosure, environmental justice, constitutional protection of property rights, and racial and economic integration. She often uses the City of New York as her laboratory. From May 2019 until the end of 2021, Been was on leave from NYU, serving as Deputy Mayor for Housing and Economic Development for the City of New York.

James Burling

James Burling is Pacific Legal Foundation's Vice President of Legal Affairs in Sacramento, California, and litigates property rights cases nationwide. In 2001, he argued Palazzolo v. Rhode Island before the Supreme Court. He received a master's degree in geological sciences from Brown University, an undergraduate degree from Hamilton College, and his Juris Doctor from the University of Arizona College of Law in 1983. Burling is a member of the Federalist Society's Environmental Law and Property Rights Practice Group's Executive Committee, a member of the American College of Real Estate Lawyers, and an honorary member of Owners' Counsel of America, an organization comprised of eminent domain attorneys who represent property owners. The Owners' Counsel awarded Burling its Crystal Eagle award in 2013. In 2022, Burling was awarded the Brigham-Kanner Property Rights Prize at the William & Marry Law School.

PANELISTS AND MODERATORS

BIOGRAPHIES

Jessica Asbridge

Jessica Asbridge is an Associate Professor of Law at Baylor Law School, joining the faculty in 2020. Her scholarship focuses on property law and constitutional law. Her recent articles have addressed private delegations of the eminent domain power, the excessive fines implications of Tyler v. Hennepin County, and the U.S. Supreme Court's distinction between appropriations and regulations with respect to the Takings Clause. Prior to teaching, she clerked for the Honorable Frank M. Hull and the Honorable Peter T. Fay, both of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit, and she practiced in the airline group at FordHarrison LLP.

Joshua Baker

Joshua Baker is the managing partner at Waldo & Lyle, P.C. He limits his practice to representing property owners in eminent domain proceedings and defending their private property rights. Mr. Baker is a frequent author and speaker on eminent domain issues and is involved in a wide range of activities to litigate and advocate on behalf of property owners and the safeguarding of private property rights at large. Mr. Baker is a "Best Lawyer" and is a Virginia member of Owners' Counsel of America, a nationwide network of eminent domain attorneys.

Maureen E. Brady

Maureen "Molly" E. Brady is the Louis D. Brandeis Professor of Law at Harvard Law School, where she teaches property law and related subjects. She has received multiple awards for teaching at both Harvard and her prior institution, the University of Virginia, and her articles have won both the Association of American Law Schools' Scholarly Papers Prize and the American Society for Legal History's Cromwell Article Prize for the best work in the preceding year by an early career scholar. WILLIAM & MARY

LAW SCHOOL

Legal education began at William & Mary in 1779 at the urging of Thomas Jefferson. He was governor of Virginia at the time and a member of the College's Board of Visitors. Jefferson believed that aspiring members of the profession should be trained to be citizen lawyers—passionate legal advocates and honorable human beings. The College's Board created the first Chair of Law in the United States in that year, naming George Wythe as its first occupant. Students of Wythe included Thomas Jefferson, John Marshall, James Monroe, and Henry Clay. The growth of the law school was halted by the beginning of the Civil War in 1861. Sixty years later, the study of law was revived in a modern program that attracts students from all regions of the nation.

William & Mary Law School has hosted the Brigham-Kanner Property Rights Conference since 2004. In 2011 William & Mary co-sponsored the Conference with Tsinghua Law School in Beijing, China, and then in 2016 with the Grotius Center of International Legal Studies in The Hague, the Netherlands.

THE COLLEGE OF

WILLIAM & MARY

Chartered in 1693 by Queen Mary II and King William III of England, The College of William and Mary is the second oldest institution of higher learning in the country. The College's student body has about 9,654 full-time (graduate and undergraduate) students with a thirteen to one student/faculty ratio. U.S. News and World Report: Best Colleges 2024 ranks the College twenty-third among top public schools in the country. Known as “the alma mater of a nation,” William & Mary has educated three American presidents—Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe and John Tyler—and George Washington served as its first chancellor.

Katherine A. Rowe was sworn in as the twenty-eight president of William & Mary on July 1, 2018, becoming the first female president of William & Mary in its 330-year history. Before assuming her current post, she served as provost and dean of faculty at Smith College in Massachusetts.
